

IT'S SO IF IT'S IN THE LEDGER.

What We May Expect For The Next Twenty-Four Hours.

THE LEDGER'S WEATHER SIGNALS.
White streamer—Fair;
Blue—Rain or snow;
With black above—will warmer grow.
If black's beneath—colder will be;
Unless black's shown—no change we'll see.
The above forecasts are made for a period of twenty-four hours, ending at 4 o'clock to-morrow evening.

THE BOY THAT LIVED.
Once I read a story of
A little boy that died,
I did not like that story, and
I laid it down and sighed.
But I know another story,
About a little boy
Who did not die—but lived to be
His mother's greatest joy.
He was the only little chick
His good old mother had,
And oh! it nearly drove her wild
Sometimes, he was so bad.
"Now this will never do!"
The wise old mother swore,
And so the kid an apple with
Behind the wardrobe door.
And then this little boy would gaze,
With tearful eyes and sore,
Whenever he went skimming there,
Behind the wardrobe door.
And so it came to pass, you see—
Explain it if you can—
That this bad boy grew up to be
A very good old man.

ALBERT N. HUFF, Secretary.

W. W. GAULT of Washington yesterday sold to George T. Hunter 1,300 bushels of choice wheat at 50 cents per bushel, notwithstanding the Democratic speakers promised the farmers $1 25 what if they would vote for Cleveland. For one Mr. Gault is satisfied that 75 cents of this is a doggone lie, but that it is about as near the truth as the average Democratic politician ever gets.

THE Truth Shall Prevail.

The satisfaction that every one must feel at the triumph of the boy about whom The Massachusetts Pheasant tells this anecdote, is due to the same feeling which prompts a big-hearted man to take the part of the "undermost dog."

Walter was the important witness, one of the lawyers, after cross-examining him severely, said:

"Your father has been talking to you and telling you how to testify, hasn't he?"

"Yes," said the boy.

"Now," said the lawyer, "just tell us how your father told you to testify?"

"Well," said the boy modestly, "father told me that the lawyers would try to tangle me, but if I would be careful and tell the truth, I could tell the same thing every time."

Father didn't try to tangle up that boy any more.

THE EXPENSE GOES ON.

Whether Times Are Good or Bad, It's All the Same.

Did you ever stop to think, dear reader, when you put off the newspaper collector, that a newspaper, unlike other industries, cannot close down during hard times, neither can the force be reduced or put on half time.

Just so much type must be set each week, and it takes the same number of hands to set it.

A newspaper is under the same expense whether times are good or bad, and, although it is the first thing thought of in the morning, it is the last thing to come around for paying.

Stop and consider if this is just. You must have your favorite paper which makes a big outlay every day in the year, except Sunday, to give you the news, and you should remember the heavy expense the paper is under.

HOW IS THIS NOW?

A Democratic Free-Trade Paper on the Business Depression.

Portsmouth Blade.—The following gives an item of the present industrial situation in Philadelphia, next to New York the largest manufacturing city on this continent. We quote from The Philadelphia Record, a rabid Democratic Free-trade organ. The Record says:

Continued apathy in all lines of trade has dissipated the hope of the Citizens' Protective Union, a committee that with the return of spring the distress which this organization was formed to relieve would pass away. On the contrary, however, the cry for relief is as loud as ever. A new class of applicants have succeeded the unemployed, some measure through the partial resumption of operations at the mills. The new comers are mostly members of building trades, whose savings from former seasons have hitherto enabled them to maintain themselves and their little households have become exhausted; and as the outlook for building operations is the reverse of bright, much suffering will inevitably be experienced through the appeal of the Relief Committee shall be heeded and generous contributions speedily follow. On the 1st of March 41,000 people were obtaining relief from the committee. This is a significant enough of the continued need for relief. Contributions will not get to the extent of his ability to further the noble work of the Relief Committee?

This does not look very much like the revival of business, does it?

What is true of Philadelphia is more than true of New York, of Chicago, of Pittsburgh and of every other great manufacturing center between ocean and ocean, and the lakes to the Gulf.

The cry goes up from the laboring classes for help, help, help. Even comparatively well-to-do, as The Record intimates, who had a little money in bank, the savings of prosperous Republican times, are now the means of alms to keep the wolf from the door.

Look over your papers and you will see that wherever works giving employment to labor start up it is invariably at a reduction of from 10 to 45 per cent. This most heart-rending fact is being met by the farmer. With from 10 to 40 per cent. of his income gone, the laboring man will have to husband his resources. He will live in a smaller house, pay less rent and do without many of the little luxuries which he has been accustomed to.

There is no need of a merchant to provide his family during the last thirty years.

ONE SENSIBLE MAN.

Archbishop Ireland on the Duty of Irishmen in America.

Archbishop Ireland preached in the Cathedral at St. Paul, Minn., on St. Patrick's Day, taking for his theme, "Foreign Nationalism in America," "Foreign Nationalism in America," he said, must be kept in the background, and be made to give place in church and state to Americanism.

St. Patrick teaches this lesson. Himself not a native of Ireland, he became a most thorough Irishman. His success in converting Ireland to the Christian faith was largely due to his practical wisdom in adapting the movable and accidental forms of the faith to the customs and traditions of the Irish.

The Catholic Church, as far as she wears a National aspect, must be American in America. To make her Irish was to make her unfit for the country. Separation of the best of Catholics from another on foreign lines was wrong. The church had suffered from lack of Americanism. One Nationalism was, and must be, supreme in our civil and social matters, and that was American Nationalism. It was wrong in private life to cultivate the spirit of a foreign Nationalism, at the expense of American Nationalism. Nothing could be allowed that takes, in the slightest degree, from the honor of her flag, and allegiance to her laws.

Citizens of foreign descent must know that only by being thorough Americans can they succeed even in material prospects, and in gaining respect and confidence of the country.

At a sale at Mt. Carmel a few days ago a horse was disposed of for $3. Good LORNS, horses at $36 a dozen! Now, who will say these are not good Democratic times?

AMERICAN farmers who have been humbugged into believing that "Tariff reform" meant better markets and better prices for their products should study the statistics of the striking summary in The New York Press, showing the enormous loss which the farmers of the United States have sustained from one year of Clevelandism. The figures given are taken from official documents. These demonstrate that the loss on farm stock and the wheat crop alone during the last year reaches $560,000,000. The loss on the wheat crop is $270,000,000. The significance of this statement is accentuated by the fact that the wheat crop of 1893 was the smallest since 1886.

The loss sustained by the sheep and wool industry has been stupendous. The number of sheep in the country was lessened by some 2,500,000 in 1893 and their value depreciated by more than 25 per cent. Should the Wilson Bill be passed in its present shape, it would exterminate the sheep raising industry, which represented in 1890 an investment of $116,000,000. The McKinley Tariff was justly described as a farmer's tariff. The Wilson Bill deals a deadly blow at American tillers of the soil as well as at American artisans and operatives.

THE "howl" mill grinds along as usual, B'f'r Malsb:

Hudson, Mass., March 17th.—Lusters at Brett's shoe factory struck today because of the introduction of lasting machines and a reduction of wages.

AYER, Mass., March 17th.—Owing to a disagreement over wages, the shoe factory of Leighton Brothers at East Pepperell will be closed indefinitely.

New Haven, March 17th.—The Consolidated road has decided to discharge about fifty trainmen. This will make about 350 employees who have been discharged during the year to cut down running expenses.

ANDOVER, O., March 17th.—Sixteen male teachers in Newton Township are on a strike against reduction of their wages for the spring term to a dollar a day.

BOSTON, Mass., March 17th.—H. B. Endicott, one of the assignees of Isaac Prouty & Co., shoe manufacturers of Spencer, Mass., said today that the liabilities of the firm would amount to $70,000. The assets, Mr. Endicott said, will be fully as large. The firm was the largest of its kind in the world, and the failure is the heaviest in the New England leather trade for a long time. The firm has a payroll of about $600,000 a year and has been doing an annual business of $2,000,000.

NEW YORK'S NEED.
 Chicago Post.—New York does not need more people. It needs better people.

THE DEADLY PERIL.
 Detroit Free Press.—The tramp went into the house to get something while his wife was on the road outside. When he turned he had a generous load of food & clothes. "Get on to this layout," he said triumphantly to his friend. "I responded the other cause to be careful if we strike like this or the authorities will down for our income tax."

ONE AGITATION ENDED.
 St. Louis Globe-Democrat.—This one year of Democracy has given the quietest to the movement to extend the Presidential term to six years. The chances that we may some time get another Cleveland lead most people to prefer short or rather than longer terms.

LIKEWISE A LION AND A UNICORN.
 New York Sun.—The distinguished citizen who won must now be admitted to the very inner circle of the giants where have stood Hyer and Sullivan. He is a prize in his profession, a star of the first magnitude, a gem of the first water, a whirlwind, and a slugger of the Samsonian class, and America feels with satisfaction that the day of great men has come again.

WILSON AGAINST MCKINLEY.
 Friday Republican.—The proper man for the Democracy to nominate for President in 1896 is Prof. Wilson of West Virginia. The Professor would directly represent the latest definite exemplification of the doctrine of Tariff reform, and as to McKinley, to contest in that case would be a straight-out fight between the McKinley and Wilson Tariff ideas. Nothing could be politically more appropriate than this sort of a battle. The outcome, in our opinion, would for years to come settle the theory that there is a popular demand for an American "era of cheapness."

BARGAINS IN CLOCKS. If you need a Clock and a good one go to Murphy the Jeweler. A great reduction in prices of Iron Clocks, Onyx Clocks and Wood Clocks. Successor to Hopper & Murphy.

It must be a good article that will induce a man to go forty miles to get it. E. R. Sweetman of Fairfax Station, says a party came forty miles to his store for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and bought a dozen bottles. "The remedy is a great favorite in this vicinity," he says, "and has performed some wonderful cures here." It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping Cough. For sale by Theo. C. Power, Druggist.

Col. Breckinridge's Lawyers Foiled at Every Turn.

How the Defendant Promised to Oversee Her Education.

Cross-Examination By the Colonel's Attorneys—Her Relations Continued With the Defendant Since Her Secret Marriage to Mrs. Wing.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Pressure for the trial to the extent of the Pollard-Breckinridge case is in progress was greater Monday than it has been at any time before because of the expectation that Miss Pollard would return to the witness stand for the continuation of the cross-examination. Crowds pressed against the balcony at the foot of the stairs to pass them by main force, and being repelled with the greatest difficulty.

First among the important arrivals was the defendant, who took her seat, and soon afterward came Miss Pollard without the black cloak which she had worn before. She was dressed in a black cloth gown.

Several questions were asked by Mr. Carlisle in direct examination as soon as the plaintiff had taken the stand, the first of which was to the effect: "You are married, are you?"

"Yes, Mr. Carlisle," she replied. "Who was the father of your first child?" she next asked, to which she replied, "Mr. Breckinridge."

Then in continuation the plaintiff related in greater detail than she had before the example of the child, and she admitted, averring that he had told her that he would take her to the house of a dear friend who he had known in Louisville before he took her to the house of Mrs. Rose, in Cincinnati.

He had told her that she had a wonderful intellect, that a brilliant future was before her, and I seemed to be completely under the influence of his wonderful powers of persuasion," she said.

The first night they had been together they had walked the streets of Cincinnati, as they had done the next day after meeting in the public library. Col. Breckinridge had told her that he would oversee her education, and that he would return the money advanced for her schooling by Mr. Rhodes.

"He did not accomplish his purpose the first day in spite of his violent attempts," she continued, "and it was only late the second day when we were in the house of assignment in Cincinnati."

Before taking the stand of Sarah Gues at Lexington, Col. Breckinridge had arranged that she should go to the school a telegram purporting to come from her mother, which he did.

"Did the sexual relations which you have testified to with Col. Breckinridge continue after the 29th of April, 1893?" inquired Mr. Carlisle, that being the date of the secret marriage to Mrs. Wing.

"They did up to and including the 17th day of May, 1893, when we were the last time," said Col. Breckinridge, she said, and was about to make further explanations before the defendant's lawyers interposed objections.

After these passages the sparring began between Mr. Butterworth and the young woman was resumed, and she was dropped Friday. Many detailed questions concerning her early life, her studies, amusements, friends and ambitions were asked, and the plaintiff returned replies which could have given no comfort to her opponents. When it was asked whether she was a member of the church she replied that she had been confirmed in the Episcopal church.

"Are you a member now?" was asked.

"Once a member of the Episcopal church always a member," came the epigrammatic reply.

Her early ambition had been to write, Miss Pollard declared, and Col. Breckinridge had told her that she had wonderful talent in that line. She had also desired to become a teacher.

"Do you know the value of character for a teacher?" Mr. Butterworth asked.

"Most assuredly I do. Never so much as today," she replied, with a ready reply. "But all this was swept away by one act."

Further on she explained that she understood the request that she should confine her answers to the questions put to her, as she manifested a disposition to overstep the limits in her eagerness to make her statements known against the other side. Her voice was somewhat lower than it had been when she was last before the court, but her words were as carefully chosen as ever.

There was some interesting sparring when Mr. Butterworth asked the high-faloot schoolgirl letter to "Wessie" Brown, daughter of the principal of the Wesleyan seminary, and that it was a kind of one-sided letter. The plaintiff admitted that it had been overdrawn and was exaggerated in her pride at that time. It contained references to a wind letter, for whom she had entertained the greatest affection, according to the allusions, and also to Rosell.

"Were you engaged to him?" inquired Mr. Butterworth, referring to the latter individual.

"Not at that time," replied Miss Pollard.

There were several other references to the latter person and to her idea that it was her duty to break him of the habit of "swilling fire water."

"Have you corrected all the errors in this letter?" Mr. Butterworth asked, as he finished reading, in his electioneer style, being somewhat indignant, and then lifting her head began to wipe away with her handkerchief.
